Lee Shippey Writes On Our Land

EVERY NOW and then I hear someone say with some annoyance: "This country is not a democracy. It is a republic." But when I ask what is the difference they give muddled replies. So I got out Thorndike's Senior Dictionary to look for myself, and here is what I found:

Democracy—A country in which the people rule, either directly or through elected representatives. The United States is a democracy.

Republic—A country in which the people rule through elected representatives.

In other words, our nation is a democracy because the people, if they'll get out and vote, can rule it and in most cases do, though they do it through elected representatives.

The dictionary positively states it is a democracy. But it is also a republic because most of our decisions are made by our elected representatives. The exceptions are when we vote on bond issues, referendums or recalls.

If it weren't for the possibility of such elections some of our elected representatives might take the bit in their teeth and do things we might strongly disapprove, so they are reins by which the people are the real rulers any time that is necessary. So actually, as the dictionary says, ours seems to be more a democracy than a republic.

JUST SUPPOSE all the great powers, including ours and Russia, really did away with all military armament. Wouldn't it then be possible for Castro or someone in darkest Africa secretly to develop weapons with which to conquer the whole world, including us?

On the other hand, when only a few people had guns it was believed they would make war impossible. But the bigger the weapons the bigger the wars.

And as for facts forbidding nuclear weapons, every gangster is forbidden by law to carry a gun, but they manage to get even better ones than the cops do.

Sure, the police are organized deterrents, but the only preventive of crime will be to get people to love decency more than they love ill-gotten gains.

And the only way to prevent wars is for nations to be so fair and helpful to one another that mutual distrust will vanish, and all nations will realize how much happier — and cheaper — it will be to maintain peace.

It used to cost only a few cents per man to kill enemies in war; now it costs millions just to destroy a deterrent weapon which isn't working right.

WE ARE SHOCKED and indignant because many backward nations misjudge us. Haven't we developed their multimillion dollar resources — paying thousands of pennies pitifully low wages?

Haven't we supported Trujillo and numerous others in magnificence which never trickled down to the common people?

The Peace Corps mustn't be another gesture by those who sip champagne with the overlords.

It must be on friole and tortilla terms with the common people — then we won't make tragic blunders of "intelligence."

Retired Driller Dies in Hospital

Hillery Benton Floyd, 65, retired oil driller of Long Beach, and a Californian for 40 years, passed away May 5 at Sierra Madre Hospital following a brief illness. He had been an oil driller in the Saudi Arabia oil fields for many years. Services will be Friday at 2 p.m. in Ripple Mortuary Chapel, Rev. Chilton C. McPheeters of the Sierra Madre Methodist Church officiating.

THEY LEARN first-hand at Sierra Madre's Community Nursery School. Peter Lindberg and Melinda Roberts hold a duck while Mary Benedict keeps a grip on a turtle, yet keeps an eye on the duck, too, fearing that his Duckyship might take a nip at the turtle. The Nursery School invited parents of all pre-schoolers to its open house, May 6 from 10 a.m. to noon.

Historical Society Has Fine Dinner

A lot of history paraded itself, pleasantly so, through the Woman's Clubhouse banquet room Monday night as the Sierra Madre Historical Society held its annual dinner attended by more than 150 Sierra Madreans and their friends.

With Mrs. Gladys Kimball Carter, society president, of 666 Mt. Wilson Trail, presiding, there wasn't a dull moment during the entire evening, climaxed by an hour's showing of colored and black and white slides depicting yesteryear's and today's Sierra Madre.

Incidentally, Mrs. Carter, as mistress of ceremonies, made a distinct and compelling appeal for new blood in the organization, much needed especially in officering the group.

"NATURALLY, we are passing from the scene," she told the audience, "and we do need more of the 'younger generation,' from 30 to 50 years of age, or so, to join the Historical Society. Be-

Eleven-Month School Year Backed by Supt. Walker

When the Sierra Madre Board of School Trustees held its next to last meeting Monday (the board ceases to exist July 1 when the Sierra Madre elementary schools are annexed to the Pasadena Schools), it heard Supt. Robert E. Walker express support for the 11-month school year.

Opposing the 12-month year, Supt. Walker, incidentally to a discussion of the forthcoming sessions of the Los Angeles County Trustees Association at Alondra Junior High in Paramount on Saturday, May 20, expressed his favoring the 11-month school year.

He would have pupils attend either one or two sum-

3 Area Women In Powder Puff Derby

By Martha Sharp

Three young women from the Sierra Madre-Arcadia area and one young woman from Sherman Oaks have had the extraordinary and rare good luck to draw first and second take-off positions in the Powder Puff Derby when they start from Montgomery Field, San Diego, July 8, for Atlantic City, their goal.

Mrs. Russell C. (Virginia) Graham of 250 Monte Vista Lane Sierra Madre and her co-pilot, Mrs. Virginia (Glinny) Hall of Sherman Oaks drew the most desired first place position, and Mrs. Arnold (Betty) Humble of 20 Winnie Way, Arcadia, with her co-pilot, Mrs. Carl G. (Shirley) Gilmore of 1844 Highland Oaks, Santa Anita Highlands, drew second place position.

Mrs. Gilmore just received her private pilot's license several weeks ago. Mrs. Graham participated in the Derby two years ago.

MRS. GRAHAM and her co-pilot will fly a Piper Apache and Mrs. Humble will fly Mrs. Gilmore's Cessna Sky Hawk. Mrs. Humble flew as co-pilot in the Derby last year.

Mrs. Gilmore, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Humble are members of the San Gabriel Chapter of the Ninety-Nines, an international organization of top licensed women pilots. Mrs. Hall is a member of the San Fernando Chapter.

Flying during the race will be during daylight hours and under FFA visual flight rules only. The race course will be 2,709 statute miles. The airplanes are handicapped in accordance with their performance capabilities determined by previously conducted test flights of similar models.

City Hall Clerk Auto Thief Victim

Auto looters are no respecter of persons. They stole four hubcaps from the car of Beatrice Thompson, City Hall secretary, while it was parked in a vacant lot east of 167 E. Highland.

Kiwanis Will Hear Seiler

Comdr. Dayton Seiler USN (Ret.) of Hastings Ranch, candidate for the Pasadena School Board, will address the Sierra Madre Kiwanis Club at its meeting next Tuesday noon.

At a later date he also will speak before the Lions Club.

Kiwanians have set Saturday, June 3, as the date for their annual breakfast in Memorial Park. Jim Hall is in charge.

Two Girl Scout Check Blaze

Had it not been for two alert young Girl Scouts, Mrs. Lester R. (Margaret) Anthony, chairman of the Sierra Madre Parks and Recreation Commission, might have lost her home — by fire — last Thursday.

The Scouts were Pamela Roegner, 11, daughter of Mrs. Ben M. McGee of 247 San Gabriel Court, and Holly Neutzel, also 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Neutzel of 700 Acacia — the Anthony home is at 248 San Gabriel Court.

Preliminary to dinner, Mrs. Anthony had begun parboiling some pork ribs in her gas stove. She hadn't counted on the fact that the pork ribs were a bit fatter than usual.

WHILE SHE was gone up town to shop, the pork burned down, the fat caught fire and smoke began emanating from the Anthony kitchen.

Pamela and Holly, nearby, saw the smoke — and flame. They reacted promptly, dashed into the house, yanked the pan out of the stove and turned off the gas. It was a nice job, well done.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Anthony has a presentiment that all was not well at home. Arriving there ten minutes later, she found everything under control, though the interior of her home had suffered considerable smoke damage. The pork ribs, however, were a complete loss.

Needless to say, Mrs. Anthony was profuse in her thanks to the two girls who, incidentally, only the day before had listened to Fire Marshal Bert Embree talk to the Girl Scouts on "Fire Safety."

Art Exhibit Under Way at Woman's Club

Sierra Madre art gets a genuine artistic uplift from now until May 24 through the leadership of Elinor Baumeister, widely-known artist of this city.

Thirty-two oil paintings, including a wide range of landscape and still subjects, all the work of the woman's Club art group, will be on exhibit at the clubhouse, 270 W. Sierra Madre Blvd.

The exhibit is open daily, Sundays excepted. No charge.

New Sewers Are Readied

Sierra Madre progresses with its new sanitary sewer installations. City Hall yesterday announced that the new sewers are completed and ready to use on the following streets:

W. Sierra Madre Blvd., (from Lima to Michillinda); Montecito Ave., (from Lima to Michillinda); Highland Ave., (from Lima to Michillinda); Lima St., (from Sierra Madre Blvd. to Grand View Ave.); Grove St., (from Highland to Grand View Ave.); Sunnyside, (from Sierra Madre Blvd. to Fairview); Wilson, (from Highland to Grand View Ave.); Alegria, (from Sunnyside to Michillinda); Grand View Ave., (from Sunnyside to Michillinda); Laurel Ave., (from Highland to Sunnyside).

Perhaps It Was Warthogs Which Invaded Backyard

Are there warthogs in the hills back of Sierra Madre?

Dr. Harry R. Fitzhenry believes he surprised two such animals which invaded the backyard of his home at 529 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., Friday evening at dusk.

The doctor, who chased them away, reports they had long snouts and tails, about two feet long, with small eyes, of dirty brown color and that in getting away they clambered over a small redwood fence.

All of which could fit the description of warthogs. Dr. Fitzhenry reported the occurrence to police.

VFW's Gay 90's Show Is Huge Success

The Gay Nineties Party presented Saturday night at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post Hall was a bulging success — large attendance and performances bulging over with enjoyable, local talent. Attendance totaled 175 persons.

The first "Olio" was presented by Al Foxton and his group of four singing old-time melodies, followed by the mistress of ceremonies, Mrs. Barbara Heasley, giving a resounding rendition of "Ta Ra Ra Boom De Ray," accompanied by the barmoids, Cathy Thergrison, Susie Addy, Nancy Springer and May Clarke doing a can-can. They were watched over carefully by Ann Udell.

Next was the Singing Waiters — Robert Schmitt, Francis Eakman, Judd Baldwin and George Stillwell.

Fourth on the program came the four bathing beauties — Marcella Colbert, Fay Duke, Betty James and Betty Carpenter, with their life-guard, Dick James, doing the famous old number, "By the Beautiful Sea."

Jan Thomas of Monrovia sang "My Little Alice Blue Gown" and "Meet Me in St. Louie," accompanied by the Singing Waiters.

SECOND HALF of program started off with Russ Danforth, with the Old-Time Piano tunes. Ann Tyler, Charline Mankin and Bill Howard did a Charleston. The Singing Waiters directed the community sing, were followed by Little Jimmy, then Jim Vernon, who did a soft shoe dance to the tune of "Down by the Swanee River."

Last, but certainly not the least, "The Bulging Belles" singing "Oh You Great Big Beautiful Doll" — Jane Buchanan, Myrt Waite and Barbara Dunnagan. Finals consisted of the entire cast marching around the tables to the tune of "Beer Barrel Polka."

TOYON RD., CITY WIN DECISIVE LEGAL RULING AGAINST SUBDIVIDERS

Lower Court Edict Nullified By Judge

The embattled Toyon Rd. property owners, fighting a bitter fight of more than 15 months, and the City of Sierra Madre, through determined efforts by City Atty. Charles E. Martin, have won a resounding victory in the District Court of Appeals, Appellate Division, against Prescott Building Company, Pasadena subdividers.

The decision, reversing the Superior Court and making permanent a writ of prohibition which City Atty. Martin obtained earlier, has long-reaching effects in that the higher court refused point-blank to make the city a co-plaintiff in land condemnation proceedings which Prescott sought against Toyon Rd. residents.

Likewise, the court in its decision handed down by Justice J. Nourse, ruled that the Supreme Court had erred in granting Prescott Builders the right to condemn property owned by Toyon Rd. people and which Prescott sought for access to the subdivision on the old Lewis hillside tract.

Incidentally, Justice Nourse severely criticized Atty. Thomas E. Garcin, counsel for Prescott Builders, for his handling of the case.

Now, unless City Council grants Prescott Builders an extension of time in which to file a completed map, the proposed tract development, as now planned by Prescott Builders, is dead, inasmuch as the year's legal limit in which to file a completed map will expire May 11.

City Council, at its meeting a week ago last Tuesday, unanimously refused such an extension to Prescott Builders. Whether it will reconsider and grant an extension is possible but extremely doubtful.

"The power to take private property situate within the boundaries of a city is vested in the city," reads Justice Nourse's decision. "It must be exercised by the city through its legislative body," adding that Prescott Builders' contention it could make the city co-plaintiff in a condemnation proceeding was "wholly lacking in merit."

Touching on the Superior Court decision which it reversed, the court said that "the order for immediate possession made by the lower court was one which the court did not have the power to issue and is a nullity."

Originally, H. H. Shapiro, Prescott Builders president, was given preliminary approval of tract maps by City Council for developing the acreage adjacent to Toyon Rd.

TOYON RD. property owners protested, charging that the lots, as outlined, were entirely too small, and would present a danger from floods and erosion. A condition was that the private street owned by the residents, should be acquired by Prescott Builders.

The residents refused to sell unless the subdivision lots were enlarged. Prescott started a condemnation proceedings in Superior Court, including the city as co-plain-

School Board Aspirants to Speak Here

Fend; third vice president, press and public relations, Mrs. Leroy C. Toms; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Richard H. Kohler (retiring president of Civic Club); treasurer, Robert P. $1,000 Is Gathered By Little Leaguers

Sierra Madre Little League opening day at Heasley Field last Saturday morning was an outstanding success, a feature of which was that the Little Leaguers themselves sold 1950 tickets in this year's contest, this amounting to $975. The Women's Baseball Auxiliary made up the remaining $25, increasing the total to $1,000.

Each club participated in two innings of baseball and special events were dedicated to the Jim Heasley Building by Bert Menne, president of the Sierra Madre Baseball Association and throwing out of the first ball by Gregg Mulleavy, former big league star and now a scout for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Jim Heasley, as past chief and member of the Sierra Madre Fire Department, pioneered untiringly for youth of this city.

DEAN IRWIN, president of the Sierra Madre Little League, introduced that organization; Paul Westman, vice president of the Little League, introduced the Little League; Mrs. Virginia H. Lighthizer, president of the Baseball Auxiliary, described the work of that group; Mrs. James Heasley conducted the contest; Mrs. Lighthizer made the ticket awards and Eugene Bell, players' agent, was program chairman.

John D. Buchan won the four box seats to a Los Angeles game.

Marylyn Barnes Turns Out Chatty, Gossipy Column About Our Town

By Marylyn Barnes

MAY IS HERE and with it comes thoughts of spring full-blown, and summer (as heat) vacations close at hand.

To celebrate May Day and Mother's Day the girls of Brownie Troop No. 526 gave a party for their mothers. The girls themselves were hostesses; put on a program, did a Maypole dance, served refreshments, and had a wonderful time doing it. They also presented their mothers with favors they had made.

VACATIONS ARE coming for many of us but for the Jim Burkes the great day is here. They leave tonight on the trip of a lifetime. They'll fly to Philadelphia for a visit with Jim's family, then on to New York, where they'll board an Irish Airlines Jet for Shannon.

From Shannon they'll drive to Dublin, then over to Scotland to visit with relatives of Ann, fly to London (visit with Skip (Cavanaugh), Amsterdam, Paris, Switzerland, and finally Rome and Florence. Sounds fabulous. They will be gone one month.

FLORENCE AND Sellwyn Myers were fete'd last Saturday night at a surprise house warming at their home at 169 S. Baldwin. They are an interesting couple. Sellwyn is director of the Pasadena Playhouse and Florence is an actress (professional name Florence McMichael) who conducts an acting class locally. The party was given by her class. Another interesting note is Sell's father, Al Myers, was once mayor of Sierra Madre.

PUBLIC SCHOOL WEEK was a big success. Especially rewarding to Nancy Green, Janet Sielen, James Schaefer, Amy Levine, Cheryl Seymour, Lisa McLaughlin, Pamela Simons and James Karelus who were winners in the essay contest, (the essays were solely the work of the students without the benefit of editing by the teachers), and to the poster contest winners, Donna Clark, Melinda Sailer, Scott Couchman, David Cason, Richard Hall, Pamela Jones, June Takahashi and Dianne Brown. All these young people are really to be congratulated.

ELSIE AND EDDY DAMMEYER, Fran and Phil Mitchell and Dot and Art Draeger recently celebrated their 25th wedding anniversaries together. A 25th wedding anniversary is always a memorable occasion, but it is three times so in this case. Many congratulations and best wishes to these long time Sierra Madre residents and nice people. They celebrated by going to the Ship Room at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel for dining and dancing.

UP ON . . . Hastings Hill

By Joyce Wenger
ST. 8-4777

SO HAPPY TO REPORT that Lee Marfoglia, the little toddler who stepped in front of a car on Daveric last Sunday evening, was not seriously injured. All concerned are most grateful that the driver was traveling slowly, and thus avoided what could have been a fatal tragedy. However, the accident serves as a reminder that despite the rush of our busy schedules we must be ever-mindful and vigilant for a youngster who may unthinkingly dash into the street.

WONDER HOW many ranch wives are off on a new home decorating project after viewing the Altadena Guild of Huntington Memorial Hospital Home Tour last week. Saw many a familiar face among the hundreds attending. The pretty hats were as eye catching as the lovely flower arrangements, the latter, entirely the creative accomplishment of Guild members.

If my memory serves correctly, I believe the Guild made $2100 for their hospital project last year. Judging by the crowd enjoying the homes last Wednesday, I'm sure they topped all previous records — and wasn't it fun!

MRS. JOHN BLUMMER of New Haven Rd. is a busy hostess these days. Tuesday evening the annual initiation dinner for Mu Sigma was held in her home and on Sunday evening the first of our International Buffet dinners for the organization's fund-raising will also take place in the Blummer home. T.V. Show, "The Untouchables" inspired the decor for Sunday's buffet. Two hostesses will greet guests in colorful Italian costumes and the Blummer's home will be transformed into an Italian Mafia hangout. Lasanga and hot sour dough bread are included in the menu, which all adds up to a money-making and fun affair.

Among those who have made early reservations are: Messrs. and Mmes. Ray Anderson, Fred Behrens, L. Don DeCamp, James Gruetner, Case Hoffman, Keene Jacoby, Carl Lamb, John Livingston, Donald Morrison, Louis Randall, George Rogers, Otto Shoenberg, Harold Stong, Hal Wendt (Lois is prexy), and Mrs. Fred Carter, Mrs. Alyce McCulley and Mrs. Verne Smullen.

BUSY CONVENTION attending these days is Mrs. Clifford Faust of Canfield Rd., new prexy of the San Gabriel Woman's Club. Seems Freda was such an efficient member of the club while living in San Gabriel that the club literally drafted her for the top office, despite her change of residence to the Ranch.

Last week she attended the San Gabriel Valley District of Women's Clubs fifth annual convention at the Huntington-Sheraton which she reports was FULL and eye-opening.

On May 8 she'll be in Sacramento for the CFWC State Convention. Vividly I recall a Sacramento convention I attended some years ago — ghastly housing accommodations, but yummy cheese cake at Bedell's.

DEBBIE GILLMORE'S tenth birthday anniversary party at the plush Stuft Shirt was the MOST! From the moment of the matre-de's royal welcome, right through dinner and birthday cake, it was VIP treatment all the way. Debbie's guests were Sharon Brady, Wanda Carioncross, Sherry Gardner, Jennifer Pedly, Janet Silvira and Penny Wright.

Enjoying it all, (at a near by table), were Debbie's parents and grandmother, Mrs. Clara Gillmore.

Incidentally, the Gillmores recently spent a week at Newport, and while there, visited with John and Barbara Clark, former residents and widely known in our area.

MARY EASTERLING just returned from a three-week (and 6,000-mile) trip showing off baby Lisa to grandparents etc. in St. Louis and Florida! Hectic, but nice, she says.

MR. AND MRS. VERNON LEIF are jet-ing to Hawaii! They'll explore the islands in a combined business and pleasure trip, and also visit Mr. and Mrs. John Marr, former Pasadenaans. Mr. Marr is with the Department of Interior in Hawaii.

HASTINGS RANCH Nursery School was well represented at the recent nursery school convention at the Disneyland Hotel. (And what more appropriate place for said convention?). Staff and parents attending were, Viola Carmichael, Ruth Shochat, Marjorie Roos, Jeanne Crum, Dee Dee Leif and Marge Johnson.

Mrs. Leif was elected corresponding secretary of the state organization. Apparently there will be a new class at the Hastings Nursery next fall, a five-day class for four-year-olds. Now is the time to enroll youngsters for any nursery class, I'm told.

NOTE FROM the Tuesday Musicals Juniors reminds us they will present their spring concert Saturday, May 6, at 8 p.m. in the recital hall of the Pasadena Public Library. The concert will feature the presentation of awards to outstanding members. Several talented Ranch residents are members of this fine group.

CHILDREN of Las Jardenas committee members are in for a treat! At the close of the California Garden Club exhibit the lovely children's party scene will come to life. A boat inspired the Treasure Island scene, and in addition to the birthday table there is a tunnel leading to a treasure chest and a large Treasure Island map, (cleverly done with rocks and plant material). Well, we may not be included in the children's party, but we are all most cordially invited to attend this Fourth Annual Spring Flower Show, at the Arboretum in Arcadia May 5, 6, and 7. See you there!

HILLTOPPERS went Hollywood last Saturday night! That is, they attended a gay party at the E. F. Marrs home which resembled the Brown Derby and most convincingly carried out the party's theme "A Night in Hollywood."

Guests played TV games, including "Stop the Music" and "This Is Your Life." The Randolph Wilburs were co-hosts for the clever party and guests included: Messrs. and Mmes. Carder Dennis, Don Hayward, Warren Milldrum, Howard Moon, James Sullivan. Also Dr. and Mrs. William Linden and Dr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES H. SULLIVAN will entertain at a pre-theater supper party Saturday evening. The occasion is the Phi Nu benefit for Los Angeles Orthopedic Hospital, and guests will attend the current Pasadena Playhouse production "Marriage-Go-Round."

Invited to dine at the Sullivan's Riveria Dr. home are Messrs. and Mmes. Morgan O'Neil, John Rinek, Earl Stanek, Robert Winchell, Randolph Wilbur, and Richard Ungerland.

MRS. CHARLES HARRISON whipped up a quick party last week that served a duo purpose. It was a surprise birthday party for Isabelle Goldsmith and a going-away party for Jean Nikola, who will join her husband on Florida business trip. Guests were Faye Katz, Emily Morzov, Vilma Potter, Marge Rowley, Vanda Stewart and Evelyn Wicklund.

AMBITIOUS and hardy, (I hope), members of Scout Troop 39 will hike to Henninger Flats on Saturday. Troop leaders are Inge Wilbur, Jeanne Heer and Shirlee Smith.

"NIGHT IN LAS VEGAS" was the fun theme for the Shakespeare Club Juniors party last Saturday night at the Western Hotel Restaurant in Arcadia. Guests from the Ranch included Messrs. and Mmes. Robert Cushman, Stewart Cyphers, Daniel Rogers, Donald George, T. Fessenden, Curtis Wyatt, Edwin Easterling, Franklin Williams, Stephen Strople, Charles McCurdy, George Gillmore, Robert Paul and Claude Hickman.

S.M. Shell Alters Hours Sierra Madre Shell Service, 54 N. Baldwin, has inaugurated new hours, open weekdays from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Sundays from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., according to its new owner, J. C. Vanderhave.

The man who can laugh at his own troubles will never run out of things to laugh about.

2 S.M. Girls Win Honors

Two Sierra Madre girls, Charlotte Fedde and Jerrel Kraus, are among eight graduating girls from San Gabriel Valley high school senior classes and from Pasadena City College who will receive $100 scholarship achievement awards next Saturday from the Panhellenic Association.

Jerrel Robin Kraus, attending Pasadena High School, is the daughter of Mrs. Joyce R. Fenwick of 501 N. Grove, Sierra Madre. She is a California Scholarship Seal Bearer, Bank of America Merit winner, Distinguished Service Award recipient, and is Girls' League president.

Charlotte Ann Fedde of Pasadena City College is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Fedde of 51 Rancho Rd., Sierra Madre. She was a 1960 delegate to the White House Conference on Youth, Freshman class president, Associated Student Body president, OMD president and is member of Spartans.

Behind The Scenes In Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK—The American consumer appears to be sitting in the driver's seat these days as industry studies him and attempts to curry his favor.

He's even escaped any blame for the recession which has been attributed to overcapacity and too-large inventories. On the contrary, Mr. Consumer is even receiving some credit for moderating the recession.

A Federal Reserve Bank economist notes in the monthly review that the consumer refused to be panicked by the recession into reducing his spending drastically. Consumer spending was at a record high in the final quarter of 1960 despite all the talk of recession.

The bank's economist says the downswing in inventory purchases by business may have been "excessive," in view of the consumer's attitude.

A Midwest investment firm reports that today's consumer is spending 40 per cent of his dollar with service industries, compared with 32 per cent in 1948. The service industries include travel bureaus, automobile repair shops, piano tuner, doctor, dancing school and such.

EVERYBODY WINS—Unlike the big leagues in baseball, where only two teams can win the first-place pennants, business and groups from the public sometimes can undertake a project that concludes with everybody, including the consumer, winning.

Such a project is now getting under way across a wide area of the Upper Midwest. The "teams" are Cargill, Inc., farm products shippers and processor, and 40 local chapters of the Future Farmers of America. Under the program, sponsored by Cargill Hybrids, the FFA chapters will undertake five-month corn management projects underwritten and guaranteed against financial loss.

Each chapter will grow corn from seed provided by Cargill on a five-acre parcel of land, and will give the sponsoring firm crop condition reports at various stages of growth. At the outset the youths may borrow up to $150 to get the crop started. When harvest time comes, the chapter keeps the net profit from the crop. The whole theory is in tune with FFA's motto of "Learning to Do . . . Doing to Learn," notes W. J. Kortessmaki, Minnesota FFA executive secretary.

Cargill Hybrids later will be able to use the crop reports in its continuing research to develop better seed strains. And in the long run, better corn may be produced as an aid to the Farm Belt economy.

As you read this column we should be setting down in the new airport in Paris, providing they haven't blown it off the map by this time. If not we will have to skirt Paris and have a long walk around the Continent.

In the true style of the press this column will continue in our absence through the kind generosity of Joyce Wenger and a little advance work from myself. Hope you will be as good to her and call her with local news.

I do want to take one more moment of your time to thank all of the wonderful people who made our send-off a thing we will always remember. The trip to Europe wouldn't be half as much fun without the farewells!

THE AIKMAN ARMSTRONGS of Fairpoint gave a final cocktail party last week with around 40 guests. Surprise was a group of pre-addressed postcards of ancient vintage that aptly fit the occasion. Needless to say, it stirred plenty of comment and mirth throughout the evening.

SPEAKING OF BON VOYAGES, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Tumilty and Mr. and Mrs. Barney Napier collaborated on a farewell dinner party to honor Dr. and Mrs. William McCormack who left last week for a Bermuda vacation.

In addition to several cute gag gifts, the crowd got together and gave them one joint present for their trip. Guests were Messrs. and Mmes. Gale Hersey, Charles Russ, Harry Daulton, Robert Walker, Mel Prett, Robert Michael, Harry Stone, Clarence Kanak, George Osburn, John Hawkins, Ray Rogers and Mr. Alexander Black who is visiting here from the East.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE L. MORRISON of Sierra Madre Villa returned last week from a three-week vacation in Mexico. They went to Mexico City and all around. Wherever they went they were widely entertained by their many friends and family.

LAST SATURDAY Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Alice Head co-hosted a Great Grandmother Shower for Mrs. Elmer Schultz of San Gabriel Mrs. Schultz's granddaughter, Mrs. Callahan, lives in Alexandria, Virginia, and expects her baby sometime this month.

The party included Mrs. Homer Black, Mrs. Charles Dickenson, Mrs. Herman Jorgenson, Mrs. Robert Helms, Mrs. Doniece Harmon, Mrs. Joseph Hodgkinson, Mrs. T. Ingstad, Mrs. Walter Andrews, Mrs. Ray Dennis, Mrs. Rupert Branstetter and Miss Ruth Sweat. All the decor was carried out in a true stork shower fashion, and I might add I think it is a darling idea. What a nice surprise for the young mother-to-be.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN FRICKE of Barnite and three of their children, Michael, Dana and Beryt joined Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Fletcher and their three children for a weekend of fun in the sun at Balboa.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER DORN of Sierra Madre Villa gave a luau bon voyage party for Mrs. Dorn's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Crew.

The Crews are leaving for an Hawaiian Island trip soon. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McCaslin, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Snipes, Misses Mary and Sherry Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. H. Ross Clinton, Mrs. Elizabeth Hilton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Orr, Miss Sherri Dorn, and Don Lampert. The guests all brought little gifts and gags for the lucky couple.

Need More Independence

We were proud of our city councilmen, especially Severin L. Sorensen, at the meeting a week ago this last Tuesday. We gloried in their spunk in laying it on the line for the embattled Toyon Roadsters and refusing the Prescott Builders a subdivision extension.

We glowed as Councilman Sorensen read Lee Shippey's article of the week before in which was seen the germ of the Toyon Road spirit. That the article had first been printed in the Sierra Madre News was of moment, but secondary to the real cause of "Home Rule" which it implied.

It would be well if this spirit of independence and of "sustenance within our own" would be extended. Bluntly, we figure that the Council has been placing too much dependence upon City Administrator Lawrence C. Bevington, relying in most instances, on his ideas and decisions and failing to manifest the searching curiosity needful if we are to have the government to which the people of this community are entitled—and pay for.

THERE IS TOO much of taking Bevington's word for granted. He is a qualified and sufficiently able engineer, but he makes mistakes—the sewer and Suffolk St. opening situations were examples.

Plenty of citizens are asking about the city's financial and lighting situations.

Up until recently the city administrator and city treasurer provided councilmen and the press with a monthly statement of the city's finances. This has not been forthcoming of late.

We are confident that the city's finances are in good shape, but the public wants to know if they are—they pay the taxes which, incidentally, meet the salaries of the city administrator and city treasurer, even though the latter's wage is relatively small. Nevertheless, both officials have their responsibilities to Sierra Madre citizens.

REGARDING the lighting situation, we know that former Councilman Milton Emerson, now San Marino city engineer, is advising the special lighting committee appointed by Mayor W. Webster Vannier. That is good, for Emerson is well qualified to advise the committee.

But we look with askance at a committee which includes Hugh Colvin. The latter was a leader of the forces which torpedoed the previous lighting bill when its opponents were permitted four public hearings when two would have sufficed.

And it was Mr. Colvin who on the floor of City Hall Council Chambers expressed the hope that Sierra Madre would remain "quiet." We cannot see where quaintness spells progress and we cannot see where Mr. Colvin will be of any great aid in promoting the much-needed better street lighting for Sierra Madre Blvd.

That is, unless a miracle happens, and we have small hope of that.

Nor can we see why Mayor Vannier appointed him to the committee in the first place.

Brown Administration
Falters on Narcotics

One of the vital questions before the present Legislature at Sacramento is where does the state go on the narcotics problem. So far, no narcotics legislation of any incidence has been voted by either Senate or Assembly, and, of course, not a single bill on this important subject has been signed into law by Governor Edmund G. Brown.

Generally speaking, the attitude of the Brown Administration, and its corps of "representatives" which works the Legislature, has been on the soft side of narcotics enforcement.

Indication of this was when the public health committee in the Assembly amended a Senate bill designed to increase the penalty for sale of narcotics to minors, from five to ten years in prison, with no parole.

Cecil Poole, clemency secretary to Governor Brown, who recently was appointed U.S. attorney for Northern California, claimed this was "sheer idiocy."

ASSEMBLYMAN Harold K. Levering (R-Santa Monica), took Poole to task for making this statement, stating it was rather strange they would be made when the director of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics recommended the same penalties last December, and that similar penalties were recommended by Governor Brown's Study Commission on Narcotics.

"It ill becomes a man," Levering said, "seeking confirmation to the high office of United States attorney, to accuse members of the Legislature of being 'idiots' and guilty of 'rank hysteria' just because they have a tougher opinion than he."

"It will be interesting to note Mr. Poole's actions as he takes over the Federal prosecution of all narcotics offenders in Northern California."

THE SUBJECT of stiffer penalties for narcotics offenders has been one of debate now for many years, even before the time California rose to the number two State in the Union in severity of offenses, as well as number.

This year the request for more penalty is primarily in the cause of halting sales to minors, due principally to the increasing number of youngsters buying the stuff in Southern California.

Regardless of any political implications the ruckus in the Legislature may have, there are many people who can't believe there is too stiff a penalty for selling narcotics at all, let alone to minors.

These people have seen narcotics users sweating it out, have witnessed users being brought into the police station, hopped up to the point where theft and murder means no more than walking down the street, and have seen the wrecks of what once were people of normal habits attempting to break the habit.

THEY ALSO have seen the relatives of users, young

OUT OF THE COBWEBS

53 YEARS AGO THIS

His victory gives King the gold medal offered for the first race, and temporary possession of the Police Gazette big challenge trophy which he must win in three successive races to gain permanently.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

As the baseball season approaches, I am wondering if we as parents and citizens are enjoying the full benefits of this terrific program for our youth. Our town always has been concerned about our youth and eager to present them with varied programs which will interest them and occupy their time, so that they, too, will grow up to be respected citizens.

While we have three leagues—Minor, Little and Babe Ruth—with approximately 300 boys participating, and any of their games are exciting, I would like to share an experience I had in Little League.

Last year in mid-season, an elderly man, perhaps retired, sat down behind me. After a couple of innings, he was thoroughly enjoying the game. After a couple more—with the score tied—he tapped me on the shoulder and wanted to know if the games were always as exciting as this. Assuring him they were, he replied that this was a real thriller, that these little guys played like professionals.

I ALSO wonder if you as a parent have experienced the beam on your boy's face when the manager says, "Bill, take center field?" Or the terrific catch made in right field to win the game? Or the outstanding play at second base; the sensational tag at home?

Have you had the thrill of seeing him get his first base hit; or as he strikes out, the quick glance at mother for reassurance that "that's okay—you can't get a hit every time, maybe next time you will." Or have you witnessed the disappointment when that little guy hits his first home run but Mom and Dad aren't there to see it?

BY THIS TIME you are probably saying, "Oh, she's a manager's wife—she's a fanatic." Or you might say, "I always buy a Booster Ticket when the Little Leaguers come around, or help with the various fund-raising projects for the baseball program."

While the financial support is important and much appreciated, the moral support is just as important.

Let's improve last year's attendance. Watch for the opening games of all three leagues, attend as many games as possible. If you are the average parent or citizen interested in youth, I am sure you will find yourself thoroughly enjoying every minute and will agree the time and effort are well spent.

—VIRGINIA TREDER.

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Youth-in-Business-and-Industry Day Committee, I would like to thank and commend publicly the business and professional men, students and organizations who participated in Sierra Madre's first such Youth Day and made it people, whose homes have been broken and have been ostracized by their neighbors because of police intervention. Small wonder then, that most of those who have been close to the picture want it wiped out.

Narcotics are nonpartisan; they don't choose between the Democrats and Republicans. The least then, the Legislature could do at the current session, would be to give the stiffer penalty bills a try and see if they help abate the evil.

a tremendous success. Their enthusiastic cooperation was a basic ingredient of that success.

I also would like to thank and commend the members of the committee who did an outstanding job of planning and carrying out such an undertaking: Mayor Vannier, Tom Butch, Henry Nelson, Joe Delgatto, Ed-E. Herwig, Shirley Williams and the three students, Kathy Brown, Andrea Paddock and Barbara Winslow.

Also deserving recognition are the Kiwanis Club for their luncheon and special program, the Chamber of Commerce and House Olson helping to defray the expenses, the Sierra Madre News for its splendid coverage, and especially Mrs. Marie Bruning for the long hours spent typing all the correspondence.

It was a job "well done" all the way around.

—ELENA C. BROWN,
Chairman, Youth-in-Business-and-Industry Day Committee.

Dear Editor:

My wife and I are operators and owners of the Glen Haven Lodge, 405 Churchill Rd., Sierra Madre, and the Glen Haven Manor at 3487 Barhite St., Pasadena.

We are serving the old-timers in our community by providing them with a home and all the personal care and attention we possibly can under present conditions. However, our home on Churchill Rd. is very old; in fact, we feel that the buildings there have outlived their usefulness and at termination of our lease in October we will vacate the property.

Our problem now is to obtain a nice home for our nice older people in their community; most of our people have spent a great part of their lives here and would not be happy elsewhere, and I am sure our city would not choose to send them away just because they have grown old.

However, some of our younger citizens are misinformed or just not informed as to the true nature of a "Rest Home" for the aged, and since we will, in the near future, request a hearing by the City Council to obtain a conditional use permit for a new home I would like to try to clarify the term "Rest Home."

TOO MANY PEOPLE look upon a rest home as a terrible and unattractive prison where old people are herded together just to await the final call. This is not the purpose of a rest home. A properly operated rest home for the aged means this:

These Senior Citizens are, in most part, grandmas and grandpas, who may have been your neighbor before entering our home.

They came to us for any one of a hundred reasons, mostly because they no longer felt capable of taking care of themselves without help, and because they were lonesome for the company of people more their own age, whose social activities were more in keeping with their desires, where they could talk over old times with people who could understand.

Many of these people have contributed to the development and advancement of our community, and have spent their lives and their tax dollars to make it possible for us to enjoy the beautiful city we now have.

Some were merchants, doctors, dentists, and missionary workers, etc.

MOST OF their doctors, friends and relatives live in our city or nearby, and yet some of our citizens would have us deny these older people the right to remain in their city; it seems the almighty dollar means more to them than the contentment of their own people. They seem to fear that having some of God's most beautiful creations (our Senior Citizens) would cause their property to lose its value if they (the older people) were to be allowed in their neighborhood. This I question.

They say they have nothing against older people but that they should be put over behind John Doe's back fence where they won't have to take a loss on their property. In other words, they do not believe that we should be our brother's keeper, but let the other fellow take care of him. I wonder how they will feel when they reach the age when their neighbors will pass judgment on them and say "You are too old, your presence will deteriorate the value of my property."

My wife and I are devoting our lives to trying to give these older people all the comfort and understanding possible. They have earned and deserve a "thank you" for the many years they have given to our betterment and advancement.

—CHARLES M. RHODES.

Two S.M. Students
Win State Awards

Two Sierra Madre students are among the State Scholars selected by the State Scholarship Commission for the academic year 1961-62. They are Robert T. Burke of 189 S. Canon Ave., who attends La Salle High, and Jerrell R. Krause of 501 N. Grove, a student at Pasadena High.

Winners of these awards gain tuition and fees up to $900 a year.

It's Really Spring

Found an old Almanac the other day and naturally I looked up the time for planting and doing things. Now is the time to plant potatoes, radishes, onions, beans and carrots.

It's also the time for these beautiful young things to break out in as little as they can get on so the tired old businessmen can select Miss Heartline and Miss Dill Pickle of '61. . . you see how handy it is to have an Almanac around.

'Song Of Siberia'

FOREWORD: David, young Hungarian violinist, had written a Song of Freedom which was first taken to Siberia by young Hungarians following the Budapest revolt. We have learned how it was spirited back to Budapest, then to West Berlin for consideration by the Underground Movement, and thence back to Budapest in a surprise ambush of Russian Communists. In the last two issues we have read of the terrific reprisals set in motion by the Communist overlords of Budapest, yet how the song itself began to sweep through Europe, even in the satellite lands. Now go on with the story.

By Den and Martha Murray

Sitting on the dirt floor of his tiny cell awaiting execution, Radnak was the only happy man in Siberia.

Vindication had come. Nay—more: adulation, touching devotion. It had arrived with the first trainload of new prisoners from Budapest. Karolyi, Kyra and Georgi, having passed beyond Vilanovitch's convenient recall by the time Bela had implicated him, had angrily put Ladislav and his treason-criers straight.

This man they had demeaned and despised, had effected a clever stratagem through Big Gol that had made the whole glorious attack possible.

They should be falling on their knees before him and kissing his feet! And perhaps they would have, only Radnak's incarceration saved him.

They did the next best thing. They shouted their abject apologies and impassioned praise through the flimsy jail walls as they passed. And Radnak heard them and glowed. This more than paid for it all. If only David could know what his song had done and was doing! . . . His wondering, speculative thoughts on the warming possibility that David did know—were interrupted by the arrival of the Roman Catholic priest he had requested and surprisingly had been granted. Must be about that time.

CHAPTER 57

Up on the hill in the administrative offices, Capt. Kiroff was in a testy mood. Which fool in Moscow had decided upon a public execution for this Radnak!

"The condemned man is to be made an example of." What garbage!

And since when had the State started getting ritualistic when it came to matters of common every-day liquidation. That was Capitalism in its most degenerate form. And didn't the fools know by now that these damn Hungarians were impulsive?

That this Radnak—thanks to the brilliant cooperation of that stupid clod of a Big Gol—was now their hero of heroes? Killing him down there in full sight of these human firecrackers might touch off the Battle of Siberia.

He walked scowlingly to the frosted window, raised it, gazed down. Satisfaction erased a few of the wrinkles. At least he had employed sound precautionary measures. The execution was taking place at night after a hard day's work on practically empty bellies and this would have sapped their strength and spirit.

The physical arrangements were prudent, too. The Hungarians, lighting themselves up with the pitch-pine torches of their own manufacture, would be strung out in two parallel banks, leaving an aisle between. The condemned man would walk down this aisle on his way to the execution stake.

All this within close range of the barracks roofs where 40 machine gun crews were ready not only with bullets, but also with spotlights to blind and illuminate any rioters.

As he continued to extract pride from the layout below—the Hungarians began issuing from their barracks bearing aloft their blazing torches.

It reminded Kiroff of a huge church his grandparents had once taken him to, where a procession of black-garbed monks or clowns of some sort or other had carried glittering candelabras through the ghostly darkness. This, he told himself, was a damn sight prettier.

An aide entered with the saluteless informality of the place to report, "Everything is ready down there, Captain."

Kiroff nodded. "You understand Hungarian. How are they taking this?"

The aide frowned meditatively. "I don't think we'll have any trouble. They know about the machine guns on the roofs."

Kiroff sniffed. "They knew about those tanks in Budapest when they rushed them barehanded."

He went to his desk, poured himself a jolt of vodka less people. As he continued on at the same dignified pace, he said sidemouth in Russian to his flanking guards, "Take me to Capt. Kiroff. These people are going to riot unless I can stop them."

The startled guards were more than eager to comply. Those machine guns on the roofs would be unable to show accurate favoritism in the event of mob action. They proceeded as if on eggs as Radnak now started a continuing exhortation to the faces dancing crazily in the flickering light of the torches:

"Patience, brothers, I'm going to speak to you. Patience, I have a message..."

CHAPTER 59

Capt. Kiroff was with drawing from the execution area to one side when the anxious halls of the guards halted him. Radnak was brought over to give his warning. Kiroff himself had been feeling something ominous in the chilly air. He shot an experienced eye back along the silent, Stygian ranks. By God, there was no doubt about it!

He whirled and shoved Radnak. "Get out there and stop them!"

Radnak moved out from the others to a position before the execution stake and addressed his people. No amplifier was needed to reach them in that thin Siberian air. Probably, none would have been needed in the tropics, so intent were they on what he had to say.

"Children of Budapest—my most beloved of all. You have won your fight. You won it back home when you stripped the beguiling mask of smiles from the hideous features of the inhuman monster that is Communism. Now you must live to see this brutal beast of vast evil brought to bay. To do anything here tonight that would deprive you of that wonderful experience, would be the act of a madman—a fool!"

"Why shed good Hungarian blood (God knows we have no problem of a surplus) and why shed the blood of these poor equally enslaved Russians, when the only possible outcome will be to rob yourselves of the opportunity to some day witness the grand fulfillment of all we have fought for: the freedom of ourselves, and of our brothers all over the world!"

"Now, if you would do me honor in this moment—if you would give me eternal, tranquil rest—you will let me die knowing that I have done with shedding blood, other than my own. And that at least some of you, my brothers, will be alive to remember me, and represent me, when that glorious day comes . . . This is all I ask. Surely, you will not refuse me . . . Good night—God bless you—Long live Hungary and freedom!"

CHAPTER 60

For a long vacuum-like moment the only sound was the spit and hiss of the pitch-pine torches. Then a woman's sob rent the Arctic stillness. Lt. Rystov murmured to Capt. Kiroff, "That was Mother Hungary crying out for a real son."

Radnak backed to the stake. His bound wrists were dropped over it. They offered him a blindfold. He shook his head with a grin and said in Russian, "I paid my way in."

At a barked command the rifles of the firing squad lifted. As if these had been the batons of a group of chorus masters—from thousands of throat there came the "Song of Siberia."

Startled Russians stared. The lieutenant commanding the marksmen shot a look at Kiroff.

Another installment of the "Song of Siberia" next week.

Search and Rescue Men of Sierra Madre

FOREWORD—Coronet Magazine contains the following graphic story about Sierra Madre's famed Search and Rescue Team written by John Q. Copeland of 658 Orange Dr., to whom we are indebted for the copy here-with presented:

By John Q. Copeland

Thirteen-year-old Donald Burns and a group of hiking pals had almost reached the summit of two-mile-high Mt. San Geronimo in Southern California. It was Feb. 12, 1959—a bitter, freezing afternoon. The narrow trail was treacherously icy.

Suddenly Donald cried out and an instant later, slipped off the path before the horrified eyes of his companions. Down, down he plunged, crashing through bushes and branches that checked his fall but did not stop him, until he hit a ledge, 1,000 feet below.

Panic-stricken, the boys crowded around their adult leader. Far below, Donald's arms flapped weakly. He was alive! But how could they reach him? They shouted to him at the top of their lungs, but their voices were drowned out by the incessant roar of Big Falls, highest cataract in Southern California.

THE LEADER told the boys to stand watch while he worked his way frantically back along the slippery trail to the nearest telephone, two miles away.

There he called Donald's parents. They in turn phoned the sheriff, who alerted all professional rescue crews in the area. All raced to the accident scene.

FOR MORE than 20 hours, Mr. and Mrs. Burns watched with mounting despair as these men made seven desperate attempts from ground and air to reach their son.

El Toro Marine Base Helicopter crews, veteran San Bernardino County Sheriff's rescue units, Norton Air Force Base mountain-climbing specialists and scores of the most daring Alpinists in the country, tried desperately — with no success — to reach the boy.

The next morning San Bernardino Sheriff Frank Blundell telephoned the Los Angeles County sheriff. He urgently asked for the volunteer reserve outfit known as the Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Team.

SIX SEARCH AND RESCUE men from the small suburban town of Sierra Madre, northeast of Pasadena, immediately rushed in sheriff's cars, sirens screaming, more than 100 miles to San Geronimo base camp.

Their leader, Fred La Lone, a tall, 50-year-old Post Office clerk, studied the rugged terrain and reviewed the situation.

At 2 p.m., he and Jon Mathews, a Caltech physics instructor, went over the cliff edge far above Donald Burns. Their half-inch nylon line was secured by two assigned belay men—Miner Harkness, an insurance broker, and Ray Lorenzini, a brick mason.

Temperature was 8° F. Biting winds blew freezing spray for the falls, decomposed granite, snow slush and rock slides made the footing treacherous.

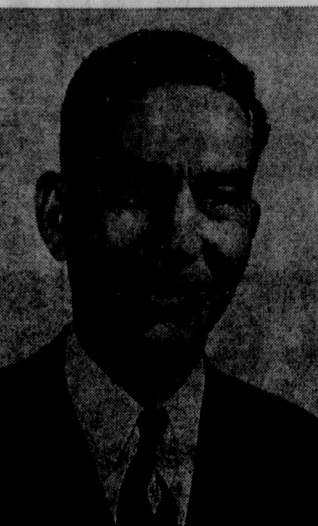

Two hours later Mathews reached Donald Burns' ledge. He was soon joined by Fred La Lone. They shortly waved the news—the boy had frozen to death after performing simple, last rites, the two men in their orange nylon jackets climbed up on their frozen ropes.

LA LONE and Mathews rested, then made a second descent to recover the body. Possibly they could have rescued Donald Burns alive, if their team had been called sooner. The record would seem to support such a claim. Since its formation in 1951, the team of 20 non-paid mountain rescue volunteers has saved 315 people, mostly children, from death or dangerous exposure.

Search and Rescue is on call 24 hours a day. Team dispatchers serve on rotating shifts. Most rescues require from four to six men to handle wire basket litters and ropes.

Volunteers include factory workers, business and professional men, teachers, clerks, craftsmen and a community hospital administrator. Their employers pay their salaries when emergencies take them from their work.

These volunteers, mostly family men, devote long weekends to training sessions. They go out on simulated rescue missions, study rope-climbing techniques, map and compass reading, Indian tracking methods and advanced first aid.

Lt. Fred La Lone

THEIR BEAT is the San Gabriel Mountain range, northerly backdrop to the Los Angeles metropolitan basin. These mountains annually lure thousands of hikers, campers and motorists on holidays. A surprising number of these people get lost or stranded or fall from the range's hazardous cliffs.

Fred La Lone founded the Search and Rescue Team in August, 1951, after a three-day search for a teenage hiker in the mountains above the Rose Bowl and Santa Anita Race Track. He located the boy wedged between rocks—nearly dead from dehydration and shock.

That near-tragedy convinced La Lone of the necessity for an organization. He signed up 20 home-town friends who, like himself, had hunted and fished the Southern California mountains since school days. First recruit was Bill Wark, ex-professional wrestler, now warehouse foreman.

La Lone also enlisted his three younger brothers: Earl, a ceramics plant technician; Robert, a service station owner, and Ed, a soap company employee.

IN THE BEGINNING, the team, armed with flashlights, a rope and a wire rescue basket, searched for lost children and adults haphazardly. Then Wark, who early became chief tracker, and Fred La Lone devised a tagging procedure to eliminate double coverage of any given area.

"You tie a little piece of red cardboard to a tree or bush," says Wark. "This means no hope remains in that area. You can only hope you haven't missed anything or anyone."

This plan was put to the test on the night of Jan. 14, 1953, when John Tholl, 14, got lost on a shortcut near mile-high Mt. Wilson.

Four Search and Rescue men systematically combed several miles of high country. They found the boy where he had fallen, tangled in tree roots. His back and leg were broken and he was suffering from severe head injuries.

They hauled him on a stretcher for five tortuous miles. Doctors said that they saved the Tholl boy's life by the thin margin of one hour. Made aware by this close shave of the desperate responsibilities they were undertaking, team members voted to add standard and advanced first-aid training to their requirements.

SEARCH AND RESCUE was officially taken into the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department in 1956 as a reserve mountain rescue unit, serving without pay. This put at their disposal the sheriff's helicopter and mountain jeeps carrying generator-powered spotlights. They could also call on the services of other volunteer crews such as the Altadena Sheriff's Substation Mountaineers.

The painstaking buildup of experience, resource and training paid off spectacularly in the winter of 1958. A 14-year-old Boy Scout, Jerry Sharpen, fell from a trail at the 7,000-foot level of San Gabriel Canyon, 20 miles north of Azusa. He lay lost overnight.

Earl La Lone, Wark and Mathews worked together as a tracking unit of a county posse. Elbow to elbow they methodically scoured dense brush and deep ravines for eight hours. They finally spotted some crushed twigs and displaced rock, which led them to Jerry Sharpen.

Former Capt. Sewell Griggers, of the L. A. County Sheriff's Department, directed by radio, lowered his helicopter into the precipitous canyon where the boy lay.

Dr. James Nash, of the Altadena Mountaineers Reserve, climbed down a rope ladder from the hovering ship to administer plasma. He diagnosed the victim as too critically injured for land transport.

As the boy's life ebbed, Search and Rescue called for brush hooks and shovels. They chopped out a four-by-eight-foot helispot on the virtually sheer slope within three hours.

Pilot Giggers made five dangerous passes before setting down. There were two feet of rotor clearance on the cliff side and the blades hovered over empty space on the canyon side.

Jerry Sharpen was lifted carefully aboard and flown to a hospital. Griggers described the job as the toughest and riskiest in his 20 years of flying.

SHORTLY AFTERWARD five Search and Rescue men were selected from all other Los Angeles County Sheriff's reserves to form the nation's first civilian Helitak (Helicopter Initial Attack) Squad. They are trained to drop by rope from helicopters hovering ten feet above inaccessible mountain territory.

Harkness also raises tracking bloodhounds. The dogs are "commissioned" to fly in custom-designed cages aboard the helicopter. Recently, Harkness and his lead hound, "Tuffy," were flown to the Lake Arrowhead resort region northwest of Palm Springs to track down a small, lost girl. They succeeded.

The team is long accustomed to personal danger. Fred La Lone once was struck by falling rocks while rescuing a stranded tot. He was laid up for a month. New Year's Eve, two years ago, his feet were badly frozen when on a rescue.

PREVIOUS RESCUE teams had retreated under a heavy blizzard. La Lone's men climbed over 6,000 feet—within a ten-mile area—to recover the body of a young hiker killed in a fall.

En route, Harkness contracted pneumonia and had to be left behind in an Arctic bag, for later portage.

At 2 a.m. on Nov. 22, 1959, Earl and Ed La Lone were routed out of bed to join in extricating a badly battered driver from his crashed auto off Santa Anita Canyon highway. They administered first aid, strapped the victim in the wire stretcher and raised him to the highway by rope to a waiting ambulance.

Meanwhile, Fred La Lone and Wark, out on rope-climbing maneuvers on the Mojave Desert, got back just in time to join the fatigued Earl and Ed in an afternoon expedition to pluck out four "non-injury" customers off a short-cut trail position above Sierra Madre.

Exhausted, they got home after dark. They were alerted almost at once to stand by for another search operation. This time they had to assist a 16-year-old hiker, long overdue, out of the hills.

La Lone and company got to bed well past midnight of Nov. 23 after nearly 24 hours of rescue duty.

SOMETIMES they use psychology to save lives. One night a would-be suicide threatened to leap from the brink of a Southland waterfall. The fellow meekly changed his mind after one of the rescuers showed his deputy sheriff's badge (all Search and Rescue men are unpaid deputies) and threatened arrest.

It is also standard procedure to "talk" fear-paralyzed cliff-hangers down off comparatively easy slopes via portable public-address loudspeakers, dubbed bullhorns.

Recently a group of Englishmen, fresh from climbing the Alps, found themselves stuck on a mountainside within embarrassing sight of city traffic—bound for the Rose Bowl Game. They frantically grabbed the ropes lowered by Search and Rescue.

Later, the conquerors of the Matterhorn described the San Gabriel Mountains as "the most dangerous in the world," because of the treacherous decomposed granite facing.

Fred La Lone, who can find his way through a wilderness at night, not long ago was cajoled by his brothers to fly to New York to appear on a network TV show, to help promote the mountain safety campaign.

Fred made it to Broadway. Then he proceeded to get lost in a subway crowd. He wound up in the wilds of New Jersey and, of course, had to be rescued.

Mrs. Hosford Passes Away

A resident of Sierra Madre since 1919, Mrs. Olga Rita Hosford, 83, passed away April 27 in a Los Angeles hospital.

Originally from Iowa, Mrs. Hosford had been a Californian for 52 years and for many years, with her husband, managed Fern Lodge in Santa Anita Canyon. Her son, Donald, passed away four years ago.

Surviving are her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Donald B. Hosford of Burbank; five grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Services were private at Pasadena Mausoleum on April 29. Ripple Mortuary was in charge.

Patrick Lovejoy Wins Golf Award

CAR FIRE EXTINGUISHED
Police extinguished fire in an automobile cushion seat of the car of Mrs. Hugh A. Warden, 139 W. Bonita, Monday. There was little damage to the car.

Mrs. Nelson Injured by Runaway Car

A runaway automobile last Friday brought multiple burns and bruises for Mrs. Henry A. Nelson of 177 Lowell which sent her to Sierra Madre Community Hospital for overnight treatment. Mr. Nelson is president of the Sierra Madre Kiwanis Club.

Mrs. Nelson had parked property at 1960 Vista which the Nelsons have purchased and into which they plan to soon move. The driveway is downgraded.

In some way the brake slipped and the car started downhill toward the street, its speed accelerating. Mrs. Nelson ran after it, grasped hold of the door, slipped and was dragged along the driveway out into and across the street, where the vehicle banged against the curb and stopped.

Mrs. Nelson's screams attracted nearby residents who summoned an ambulance which took her to the hospital. One hand was badly burned and her body bruised and burned in many places. It was considered fortunate that she was not dragged under the car.

Society Will Pick Officers

The Women's Society of the Sierra Madre Methodist Church will hold its regular meeting on Tuesday, May 9, at 10 a.m. in Parish House. Mrs. Charles Trowbridge, past president of the Southern California-Arizona district of the Women's Division, will speak to the group about "Our Threefold Pledge."

The business meeting, led by Mrs. William Heller, society president, will include two most important items: election of officers for the coming year and presentation of the budget for the same period.

Mrs. A. J. McClelland will present the devotional and Mrs. Charles Milton and Mrs. Lewis McPherson will be hostesses. Mrs. Milton also has coordinated the program. Esther Circle, whose chairman is Mrs. Harold Porter, will serve a salad luncheon, following the program.

'Cousins' Set For Gift to Center Ward

Mrs. C. L. Haserot, also of Santa Anita Oaks, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers for the coming year proposed by her committee for voting at the May meeting. These committee women are Mrs. Eleanor Sullivan and Mrs. William Lisle.

THE LADIES have been meeting in workshops under direction of Mrs. Robert Spreen, ways and means chairman, to make and applique aqua cotton bedspreads for the nursery ward of the Casa Colina Rehabilitation Center. Mrs. Spreen said all the bedspreads had been completed. Mrs. Von Bauer and her co-hostesses, Mmes. W. Peyton Harriman and C. W. Decker, served a delicious luncheon following the meeting.

The group plans to make another trip to the Center in Pomona on Sunday, April 23, with their husbands. Mrs. Robert Cunison, hospital administrator, will conduct the group on a tour of the premises, and will receive the completed bedspreads from the Country Cousins. After the tour, the group will enjoy dinner at the Stuft Shirt in Upland and a social evening.

Appleton To Boss Pool This Summer

The Parks and Recreation Commission announces the Summer Program for the Sierra Madre Swimming Pool in Sierra Vista Park.

The pool will open on Saturday, May 27, on a weekend basis until June 15, at which time it will be open daily.

A new innovation is being offered in the form of a family ticket which will entitle Mom and Dad, and all the kids (under 19 years of age) to swim at a savings for the entire season. This ticket costs only $12.50 for each family. The tickets go on sale today at City Hall.

Pool Manager for 1961, appointed by the Commission, is Fred G. Appleton. "Rick," as he is known by friends, is a graduate of Occidental College and now working for his secondary teaching credential at Los Angeles State. Rick has worked for the City of San Gabriel Recreation Department for five years as Pool Guard and Head Guard.

RETURNING again to lead the morning swimming instruction is the popular Myrt Waite who needs no introduction to Sierra Madre children. Registration will be June 5 to June 9.

Improvements to the facilities include a new concession stand, modernization of the lobby and incorporation of traffic control turnstiles.

There is also offered an individual season ticket at the low cost of $5 to reach individual.

This coming Monday all residences within the City of Sierra Madre will receive an application for the family season pass.

Mrs. Helen Kay of Type Town will have her Glenteens Youth Group on hand to assist. LOOKS LIKE a circus tent, eh? Well, it is and it houses a "Lumberman Circus" which Arcadia Lumber is staging this weekend on its grounds in Arcadia. Ringling Bros. hasn't anything on Arcadia Lumber.

Exhibit in Lumber Firm Circus Tent

Much interest has been shown in the tent that has been erected in the parking lot of Arcadia Lumber, 214 N. Santa Anita Ave. (Double Dr.), in the heart of Arcadia, according to L. A. Beckstrom, president.

It heralds the "Home Fair for Better Living," scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 4, 5 and 6, sponsored by the lumber firm.

"More than 40 exhibitors with items ranging from home work tools to outdoor patios and swimming pools are demonstrating how to make your home more beautiful and livable," Beckstrom says.

"The fair has been laid out in a large circus tent on the parking lot and includes as part of the entertainment forestry movies, music, clowns, free prizes and balloons." Alyce Jones, Arcadia City hostess, is mistress of ceremonies.

The show is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday and Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

joyed by employees of the State Printing Plant, and other charges that are imposed by the state, such as over-charges to permit surplus funds for acquisition of new equipment.

With publication of the report, Roy E. Simpson, state superintendent of public instruction, who is in charge of the Department of Education operation, and Paul Gallagher, head of the State Printing Office, are going to have some tall explaining to do with regard to this waste.

Undoubtedly both will dream up some type of excuse for the fiasco, but no excuses will mitigate the facts in the case, which are that the California taxpayer has been "reamed, shook and took."

The show is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday and Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Scouts 382 Celebrating 2nd Birthday

A presidential Patrol Award and two Proficiency Patrol Awards were presented to Boy Scout Troop 382 of Hastings Ranch at the Rose Bowl District Camporee, Brookside Park, April 15 and 16. The troop was chartered two years ago and is sponsored by the Don Benito PTA, with Vic Harris, institutional representative.

Since establishment, the troop has inducted 31 boys into Scouting, received 45 advancements ranging from second class to Star Scout, and the boys have earned 108 merit badges.

There have been a total of 126 hiker-days since the troop was founded.

Hikes have been to various places including Arroyo Seco, West Fork, Mt. Waterman, Henniger Flats, Cascade and rehabilitation work on Sturtevant Trail.

There has been a total of 354 camper nights including such locations as Camp San Antonio, Cedar Canyon, Verdugo Pines, Desert Caravan at Lake Rosamond and Mountain Home State Forest. The troop qualified for the National Camping Award in 1960.

Last summer 19 boys and two adults from the troop attended the San Gabriel Valley Council Camp at Cherry Valley, Catalina Island. This summer the troop is planning a unit camp near Minaret Summit in the Mammoth Lakes Sierra.

AT THE CAMPOREE campfire, Scoutmaster Bruce Walton and Senior Patrol Leader Stan Westfall were called out as candidates for the Order of the Arrow. This is a national brotherhood of Scout honor campers whose aims include developing and maintaining camping traditions and promoting Scout camping.

Last year Stan Westfall was selected to represent the Sierra Madre-Hastings Ranch area at the Junior Leader Training Camp at B.S.A. National Camp, Philmont, N.M., during August, 1960.

Active members of Troop 382 include Steven Roy, troop scribe, Cobra Patrol; Bob Carley, Patrol Leader, and Scouts Glen Knickrehm, Bill Halstead, Terry Fisher, Bill Kirkland, Bob Goldman, Lee Miller and Mike Harris.

Flying Eagle Patrol—Bill Walton, patrol leader, and Scouts Ben Rode, Richard Foster, Michael Cline, Reuben Epstein, John Stires, Dick Fisher and Mike Divine. Flaming Arrow Patrol—Jim Edwards patrol leader, and Scouts Jeff Hillard, Billy Morzov, Mark Cohen, Gregg Gann, Charles Cowen, Fritz Hoffine and Harlan Dunn.

Recent additional members include Tom Erbach, transferred from Milwaukee, Wis., and Webelos Gary Heim-bruch and Robert Hunt from Pack 382.

William B. Kirkland is chairman of the troop committee; Mark S. Roy, camping chairman, and Harold S. Harris, troop treasurer.

Take your problems to Church this week — millions leave them there!

Friend or Foe

"They fight like cats and dogs" is an expression often repeated about people who fail to live in harmony and accord with one another. However, dogs and cats with but little guidance and training from their masters become inseparable friends. Mankind has for the asking a greater source of guidance in meeting unfriendly situations.

If, in your association and contact with others, you allow petty annoyances to control your reactions you are likely to let trivial things arouse your ire, resulting in the forming of resentments toward, and possible dislike for your fellowmen. On the other hand, if you bring God into unpleasant situations you can respond with a quiet but firm determination that will often gain a treasured friend instead of one against whom you may harbor resentment.

Attending and making use of your church can aid immeasurably in helping you to acquire God as a constant companion, to consult in all matters. Thus you become the master, not a victim, of unpleasant situations. You need not be a slave of the things that happen to you. Your church is a conditioning ground that disciplines and trains you to practice the presence of God.

With the hope that it will, in some measure, foster and help sustain that which is good in family and community life, this feature is sponsored by the business firms and organizations whose names appear in this space.
